CONFESSION OF MESSENGERS

Chambliss and Williams Admit They Broke Open Safe of Flyer

HAD LEFT KEYS HOME

Concocted Story of Robbery After Pushing Wrecked Safe From Car Door Into Aquia Creek.

Richmond, Feb. 22.—A. Y. Chambliss and M. M. Williams have confessed that it was they who on Thursday night broke open the safe and threw it from an express car attached to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company's Florida Flyer while the train was running between Alexandria and Fredericksburg. Both messengers made signed confessions.

Chambliss said that he had forgotten his keys, and that he broke open the safe in order to get out his supplies. Williams, who was returning home "deadhead," repeated this story, and added that Chambliss told him he had forgotten his keys and asked him (Williams) to get his. Williams had but ten minutes to spare before the train left Washington, and got the wrong keys.

After the train left Alexandria, and when it was but a short distance north of Fredericksburg, Chambliss, according to his confession, split the safe open with the emergency axe carried in the car, and then dumped the safe from the side door. He thinks that the safe dropped near the brink of the river, and it is said that the little iron box now rests at the bottom of Aquia Creek, near the scene of the famous Morganfield robbery in 1894.

Nothing save the papers and supplies which Chambliss needed were obtained from the safe, which bears out the story given out by the Southern Express Company that it contained no money. The two messengers decided after they got to Richmond that they would say that they had been held up by robbers, and holes were broken by them in both side doors to carry out their story.

The confessions were obtained by A. F. Cannaday, chief special agent of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad; Chief Special Agent Hagey, of the Southern Express Company, and Special Agent Edmondson, of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. The examination was conducted in Washington.

It is improbable that criminal or civil uproceedings will be instituted against chambliss and Williams, and it is presumed by Genera Agent W. A. Mehegan, of the Southern Express Company that they have returned to their homes.

Neither was placed under arrest either before of after the examination, in which they admitted their responsibility for the loss of the safe but they were kept under constant surveillance while in Washington, and did not meet each other until their statements were in the hands of the officials.

Richomnd, Feb. 22.—The State Board of Education adjourned late Saturday afternoon until February 26, after adopting the greater part of the list of textbooks to be used in the high schools for the next four years.

No action was taken on the offer submitted by the B. F. Johnson Publishing Company to sell textbooks to the State at a reduction of 10 per cent from the prices quoted by that firm last April, provided the entire Johnson list is adopted. Some of the mebmers of the board were much impressed by the proposal. Others would reject it as undesirable. It was finally decided to refer the matter to a subcomittee, consisting of Governor Stuart, Attorney-General Pollard and Superintendent Frank T. West, of the Louisa schools. The committee is instructed to consult further with the Johnson company, with reference to terms of exchange and other details. The result of the negotiations will be reported at the meeting February 26.

The German ambassador at Washington, who has been warned of the same danger, has telegraphed to the German ambassador at Constantinople to take immediate steps to prevent such acts of violence.

Thanks to the intervention of the United States ambassador at Constantinople, the Turkish Minister of the Interior has telegraphed to Jerusalem, instructing the local government to protect those against whom the threats of massacre have been directed.

AMERICAN SHIP STRIKES A MINE

Disaster Which Destroyed Ship Occurred off Borkum Friday

RESCUE OF THE CREW.

Germany Cannot be Held Responsible as no One Knows Who Planted Mine—Outside "Dead Zone."

Berlin, Feb. 22—The American steamship Evelyn, which left New York on January 29 with a cargo cotton for Bremen, struck a mine off Borkum Island in the North Sea Friday. The vessel sank. Her Captain and crew of twenty seven, were saved by a German steamer.

It has not been learned what nation placed the mine.

The Evelyn is the first American vessel to meet with disaster. She did not sink within the war zone included in the German admiralty's decree of February 4, which went into effect Thursday.

Borkum Island lies directly off the German coast at the Ems River and is German territory.

Washington, Feb. 23—Germany will not be held to "strict accountability" for destruction of the American steamer Evelyn at Borkum, if present Administration views carry.

Practically the entire redress will be civil proceedings by the vessel's owners against Germany when the war is over.

While the official view is that this latest incident added to the gravity of an already extremely delicate situation, authorities held that Germany had not transgressed the American "death zone" warning note.

In the first place, the Evelyn apparently was destroyed by a mine off the German coast, and probably nobody will ever know what nation sowed it. There is no law against the placing of ordinary mines, and besides the destruction was accomplished outside what is generally considered the German "death zone."

The Administration, however, is anxious to learn the entire circumstances.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LABORS

President of Alexandria Association Submits Encouraging Report for the Year.

J. F. Myers, President of the Alexandria Sunday School Association, has issued his yearly report It gives an encouraging account of the work of the organization The following are some extracts:

"The past year has been a most prosperous and successful one for our association in Christian unity and spiritual uplift among the various schools of our association. It is evident that the Sunday Schools of our city are today seeking harder than ever before to help themselves by installing and putting into operation the most modern Sunday School methods, which condition, we believe, has been brought about by the efforts of our association, our one desire, and purpose being to help each other. Indeed we feel that as the years come and go the Sunday Schools of Alexandria are being banded and welded together in such a way that we shall be known as a most powerful organization for good. The genuineness of our purpose was attested to last fall by the splendid parade we gave when we had over two thousand in line.

"Our officers have worked in harmony, and while we have not done everything we might have done, we feel that our efforts have not been in vain, but have been crowned with success and have greatly strengthened the foundations of the work previously done by our association."

MANY TURN OUT TODAY

Anniversary of Washington's Birthday Quiety Observed by Young and Old

Alexandria, the market town of George Washington, according to time honored custom, honored the memory of the great Virginian today by observing the anniversary of his birth, not by an imposing pageant, as on other occasions, but, as it were, in their hearts. Decorations fluttered from many buildings, and there was practically a general holiday.

Many people from contiguous places visited the city during the day and were entertained by friends here, while numbers of strangers from far away places who had come to Washington went to Mount Vernon.

The weather has been ideal, and the streets have been alive with people and the places of historic interest have been visited by tourists during the day.

The bells of the city were rung at noon.

The most imposing feature of the aniversary was the yearly custom of placing wreathes upon the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon. This ceremony attracted many to that place.

Officers and committees of the George Washington Birthday Association this morning placed a wreath on the sarcophagus. In the party were W. W. Ballenger, President; J. William May, vice president; Harry D. Kirk, vice president; E. E. Downham and J. H. Trimyer, past presidents; and Harry White, Thomas Chauncey, C. D. Hubbard, W. H. Duncan, W. H. Luckett, H. C. Pitts A. A. Paul and M. E. Greene.

The closing event of the aniversary will be the annual banquet of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons which will be held in the auditorium of Alexandria Lodge of Elks tonight.

A Baltimore lodge of Odd Fellows, of which Cooper was a member, interested itself in the trial of Beard and Williams.

MEN'S MEETING.

The men's meeting was largely attended yesterday afternoon in the Westminster Building and there was a strong address by Hon. Martin, A. Morrison, congressman of Indiana. He spoke on the "Unreasonableness of Unbelief." He said among other things, that a man at his best and when alone, is forced to the belief in a great intelligent Being for the soul of man points to God as the needle to the poles. He spoke of the honest doubter and declared that doubt is the stepping stone to a great and triumphant faith.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

In marked contrast to meteorological conditions one year ago, when snow fell most of the day, the weather this twenty-second day of February has been spring like—practically all that could have been desired. While there has been no general parade, the day has been observed as a holiday and the spirit of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington has been in the air.

Sixteen years ago it was determined by the Masonic fraternity and city officials to conduct special services at Mount Vernon, one hundred years having elapsed since the Good Shepherd closed in death the eyes of the revered father of his country. On December 14, 1899, Masons of Alexandria, Fredericksburg and the surrounding country, accompanied by officials of Alexandria repaired to Mt. Vernon where simple but appropriate services were conducted and wreaths placed upon the tombs of George and Martha Washington. There was a salvo of artillery on the occasion. On every succeeding 14th of December similar services are conducted at the tomb. The twenty-second of February, anniversary of Washington's birth, has been celebrated in Alexandria during the past century. There have been few omissions of this respect to his memory save during the civil war, when the illustrious American was temporarily forgotten in the fratricidal conflict.

While there has been no general celebration today, stores and residences have been decorated and the occasion has been observed as a holiday. Many visitors have been in the city most of whom went to Mount Vernon, after inspecting the various points of historic interest in this city.

Scenes have been animating at Masonic Temple and vicinity in consequence of the annual meeting of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, composed of grand masters, grand high priests, grand commanders, and grand representatives, representing more than thirty grand masonic bodies of the United States and composing the largest body of high masonic dignitaries ever assembled in the United States.

This organization, accompanied by Alexandria Masons and others visited Mount Vernon in the afternoon. The annual banquet of Alexandria-Washington Lodge will be given in the Elks' Auditorium tonight, with which the celebration will close. Speakers of national prominence will attend the banquet, and a delightful experience is assured all who may attend.

WASHINGTON WAS HUMAN.

The lives of great men are generally one-sided. After the clods of the valley fall only the good—and very properly—is pictured to generations following. Socrates was undoubtedly a great philosopher and moralist, that is if all we read of him be true. It has been suggested, however, that Plato put many words into his mouth after he swallowed the cup of hemlock. Plato, Alcibiades and Xenophon were among the learners at his feet. They idolized him, and these worthies have left on record his virtues only.

He is said to have been a stonecutter or a sculptor, and married Xantippe because she was a woman of conversational powers. She was also high-tempered, and at times made things hot for the popular Athenian, because while he was talking philosophy on street corners, the potatoes in the cellar became exhausted. While Xantippe has obtained a bad name in history, there [illegible] extenuating circumstances [illegible] for when it is considered [illegible] illustrious husband was [illegible] provident.

[illegible] d that Elijah who was [illegible] heaven in a chariot of [illegible] an of like passions as ourselves, and this undoubtedly is a hint that the same applies to the human race. George Washington one of the greatest of all Virginians, in Weem's History as well as in the school books, is pictured as aproaching the immaculate. Were this the case he would not have been human.

Speaker Champ Clark, addressing the congregation of a Washington church yesterday declared that George Washington was "the foremost uninspired mortal in the entire history of the human race."

"Many great men have lived and wrought in this glorious world," he said., "but in completeness of character and in the far-reaching important and beneficent results of his laborious achievements Washington overtops them all.

"Somebody may object that Washington occasionally drank a mint julep, bet on a horse race, danced the Virginia reel and at Monmouth swore because Gen. Charles Lee spoiled the plan of battle by retreating when ordered to charge. But we must judge men by the manners and customs in which they lived and not by those of our times. In Washington's day nearly all men drank mint juleps occasionally danced, bet and swore without any consciousness of sin. Washington was thoroughly human and no doubt sometimes sinned. I am glad he possessed the ordinary passions of man and that he did sometimes sin, for it shows we belong to the same breed that he did, which is a great honor to the rest of us"

MESSENGERS THE "YEGGMEN."

Like Beattie's whiskered tramp, the "bold robbers" who stole aboard the Florida Flyer at this city Thursday night were myths. The two express messengers now acknowledge that they broke open the safe in order to extract keys belonging to one of the couple and that the receptacle was thrown into Aquia Creek.

An old subscriber to the Gazette remarked after having read the stories of the express messengers that it seemed strange that one of the men who had not been tied and gagged did not liberate his companion before the train reached Richmond.

Railroad detectives, after studying the case, concluded that no robbers had boarded the train, but that the safe had been attacked by those in charge of it. Their batteries of questions to the couple finally forced them to acknowledge that they were the "robbers."

Misses Lucy Sampson, of Brentwood, Maryland, and Charlie Bell Parker, of Indian Head, Md., are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, in south Lee street.

THREE CASES PENDING.

Attorney-General Pollard to Prosecute Fight for Return of Martha Washington Will.

Richmond, Feb. 22.—Attorney-General Pollard will go to Washington at the end of this month to look after the interests of the Commonwealth in proceedings in three interesting cases pending in the United States Supreme Court.

In two of the cases the State of Virginia is prosecuting to recover penalties for debt. In one instance the defendant is the Dalton Adding Machine Company, which was prosecuted for doing business in Virginia without having domesticated its charter. The concern operates under a New York charter, and has sales and distributing depots in this State, but denies that the nature of the business transacted is such as to bring it under the provisions of the corporation laws. The Dalton Company claims to be amply protected by the interstate commerce laws, and refuses to take out charter papers and pay tax thereon to the State Corporation Commission.

The Attorney-Geenral will also begin the initial proceedings in the Supreme Court of the United States against John Pierpont Morgan, holder of the Martha Washington will, which was purloined by a Union soldier during the war between the States, and to which the Commonwealth lays ownership claim. The New York financier is resisting the attempt of the State to recover the stolen document, which had passed through many hands before it was purchased by the late John Pierpont Morgan, Sr., who was unaware of the true ownership of the interesting historical document. The younger Morgan has offered to compromise by surrendering the Martha Washington will to the United States government, to be kept in Washington on public exhibition, but this offer was rejected by the State of Virginia.

The will is a part of the permanent official records of Fairfax county.

COWLE'S STORMY CAREER.

Young Virginia Doctor Defendant in Divorce Suit.

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 22.—Dr. Edward S. Cowles, the young Virginian, who has had many troubles in New England, is now sued for divorce. The trial will be sensational.

It was not many years ago that Dr. Cowles first appeared in Boston. Through friends in Virginia he became acquainted with the best society. He got into hot water with the Massachusetts medical authorities, and next he had a clash during a ball at the Boston navy yard.

The episode resulted in a court martial of two young naval officers, in which prominent society girls indorsed an attack on Cowles.

Then Cowles came to New Hampshire and opened a sanatorium, but before leaving Boson he was fined for assaulting a street car conductor.

Before her marriage to Cowles, Mrs. Cowles was Miss Florence Janquith, of Brookline, Mass. It was during his residence in Boston that he met and married her.

Her counsel says that several well known Boston women will be mentioned in the divorce trial, and society is agog to learn their identity. Detectives are said to have followed the young doctor and to have observed his conduct. Dr. Cowles threatens to fight the divorce action vigorously.

It was some six years ago that naval circles and society had a sensation in the Dorothy Hessler court-martial at Boston navy Yard. It was one of the rare cases in navy trials when a woman's name was involved.

Miss Hessler, who was a pretty society bud of Evanston, Ill., was the center of the trouble, and Dr. Cowles' attentions to her were the cause of it.

P. A. Surg. Robnett and Paymaster Auld, of the navy, were on trial. It is said that they demanded that Dr. Cowles withdraw from the ballroom and then knocked him down because he refused. The severe charge of assault on a citizen followed.

Although the young naval officers were censured and penalized, many society people took their part.

FATAL PLUNGE.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Plunging headlong from a third-story window of her home, 134 B street northeast, early today, Miss Dorothy Dodge, 28 years old, daughter of William W. Dodge, a well known attorney, was fatally injured, and died at Casualty Hospital a short time later.
